Are you a producer keen to learn more about innovation in agriculture and how to get involved? Do you have a new idea for a product, or want to hear other people's ideas?

Come along to our free workshop if you want to:

- Learn and share ideas for new products and new technologies.
- Get support to get started with your idea, or take it to the next level.
- Discuss what is and isn't working in 'agtech', and what you can do about it.
- Hear about opportunities to access emerging technologies sooner.

This workshop, hosted by F2F, will be a great opportunity to meet like-minded producers from your region and work with F2F's entrepreneurs and innovation experts. Lunch will be provided.

The Grains Research and Development Corporation has partnered with Farmers2Founders to deliver Growers as Innovators Workshops. Farmers2Founders (F2F) was designed to support producer-led innovation. Our farmer entrepreneurship programs help Australian primary producers lead the conversation on emerging technologies and new business models in agriculture. We help producers learn, share, get involved and benefit from innovation in food and fibre.
